COMMUNITY MAGAZINE

Issue No. 72

EDITORIAL

October 1982

Thank you to Janet Biggs for editing last month's magazine. As October is the month of the Churches' Dedication Festival it is appropriate that we have an article on some interesting facts on the history of St. Etheldredas. Did you know for instance that it originally had a dual purpose and was used both as the village school and the Church? The article is an Extract from a copy of London Illustrated News dated 1860 which was copied out and sent to someone in Reach who kindly passed it on to me.

Also in this month's issue is a very nice letter from Mrs. E.J. Sargeant, the widow of Toby who was touched by the recent obituary to her husband (August Issue). Many thanks to her for a donation towards magazine costs.

There will be another meeting of Reach Village Society on Friday 8th October at 8.30 p.m. at the Village Centre, when it is hoped more people will attend. Amongst other things to be discussed is a village Bonfire Party for November 5th which sounds like an excellent idea.

Congratulations to Janet Aves and Glenn Newman who were married this month and to Peter and Jackie Fisher who had a baby boy at the beginning of the month. Finally, welcome to the men who have recently moved into Snib End.

Kay Pote.

FROM THE VICAR

I feel this is the moment at which to offer our good wishes to the Swaffham Prior Youth Club in their enterprise, soon to begin, of erecting their new premises at the bottom of Town Close. It was a relief to hear that their bank balance was stronger by £3,500 after their mammoth effort on the August Bank Holiday.

By the same token, may I offer our very warm thanks to everyone who gave of their time, effort and wealth to make our dual exhibition in the two churches such a success over the same week-end. The proceeds so far amount to £769.

Meanwhile, may I offer you a little gentle fun for a change, from a delightful collection of verse which appeared about thirty years ago under the title of Parish Fashions, by S.J. Forrest. The following samples seem to have lost none of their pertinence.

BEWARE OF THE DOGMA

He preached about the Trinity and how the world began;
Explained the Incarnation and the destiny of man. He carefully expounded every detail of the creeds,
And tried to show their relevance to modern human needs;
He brilliantly upheld the Christian heritage of truth,
And sought to make it lucid and acceptable to youth.
They listened with correctitude, but everybody said:
"He's far too theological, and quite above our head".

He gave an exposition of the Church's means of grace,
Revealing how the sacraments revive a fallen race;
Of self-examination and the ways of mental prayer,
And why we need communion, and how, and when, and where.
He spoke of Bible-reading, and to make it all complete,
Gave practical instruction on the value of retreat.
And everyone agreed that it was logical enough,
But only suitable for those who like that kind of stuff.

He chose the Ten Commandments as the basis of a course,
He amplified their meaning and he emphasised their force;
He took the eight Beatitudes and Sermon on the Mount,
And spoke of Christian stewardship and rendering account.
He did his best to penetrate beneath their toughened skins
With pointed expositions of the seven deadly sins.
They felt a little slighted to be led across this ground,
For morals in suburbia are basically sound.

One day, in disillusionment, believing no one cared,
 He flung at them a homily completely unprepared,
 Endeavouring his customary quarter-hour to fill,
 With sentimental platitudes that meant precisely NIL;
 Returning to the vestry in grip of horrid fears
 That people would consider it insulting to their ears.
 But no, they were enraptured and devoured every word:
 "Oh vicar, it was lovely! Quite the best we've ever heard!

The following, I imagine, needs no explanation either.

UNCONFIRMED MARVEL

Oh, Vicar, thank you terribly for asking after Joey;
 His progress all the term has been phenomenally showy.
 The school report was wonderful, and even on vacation,
 He's feverishly busy with unending occupation:
 He's working on the radio to make it pre-selective,
 And reading criminology, to be a great detective;
 And while his scholarship exam is pending a decision,
 He's mastering the principles of modern television.
 He understands the mysteries of synchrony and scanning,
 And here's a little sketch of apparatus that he's planning.
 He's made a lovely aeroplane with accurate dihedral,
 And built a perfect replica of Exeter Cathedral;
 He's classified a thousand trains, observed on railway stations,
 And catalogued the foreign stamps of ninety-seven nations!
 He's joined your Confirmation Class, but Dad and I have banned it;
 You see, we feel he's just a bit too young to understand it.

Despite this, I hope to begin Confirmation classes in the Vicarage on Wednesday 6th October at 8.30 p.m.

School Church at Reach, Cambridge.

Copy from London Illustrated News 1860

The hamlet of Reach, about 12 miles N.E. of Cambridge, is the remains of a Saxon City, which was of some importance before the conquest.

For centuries, however, it has been without any provision for education, or the means of Grace, according to the doctrine of the established church, though a ruined gable with the remains of a tracery window, show that it was not always so neglected. On the site of the church to which this twice worn old wall belongs has now risen the pretty little building which we engrave on our present No. the first stone of which was laid on June 7th by C.J. Allex of Swaffham Prior House and which was open for service on 18th October. As the building is to serve as a church as well as a school greater care has been bestowed on the details than would have been required in an ordinary country school house. Yet all is rough and serviceable and without architectural pretence as may be judged by the cost which, without forms, desks and such fittings, but including pulpit, stores and the bell, is somewhat under £600.

The plan of the building is a parallelogram fifty feet by twenty feet with the addition of three arches and an apsidal termination at each end. There are also small transepts N S. which contain the infants gallery, vestry desks etc. The timbers of the roof are stained, the underside of the rafters being sealed.

The reading desk is of wood, but the pulpit is of clunch the best of which is to be procured in the neighbourhood.

The walls, also, are of this material with red and white bricks. Casterton stone has been used for the isolated columns, the capitals of which are carved and in parts about the bell turret and elsewhere ornamental patterns of green and violet glass have been used for the windows generally.

The central window of the apex (a present) is stained glass by Lavers & Barnard, the whole effect of the building exterior and interior is very good and reflects great credit on the architect Mr. Chas. Foster Hayward of Adam St. Adelphia and the builders Messrs. Wm. Bell & Sons of Cambridge.

To the Vicar of S. Priory however, the Rev. Thos. Preston in whose parish Reach is situated, belongs the entire merit of having originated and successfully carried out the work, the opening morning service was read by this gentleman, assisted by the Rev. J.W. Cockshott, vicar of Burwell, who gave the site for the building and the sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Selwyn Margaret Professor of Div. in the University of Cambridge.

In the evening the preacher was Rev. H.E. Preston of Jasburg, Norfolk, Rural Dean. Great interest was shown by the neighbourhood generally.

Dear Editor,

My good friends in Reach passed your magazine to me. I was touched and proud that you had given so much space to my husband.

My family and I hold dear and happy memories of our time spent at Reach. Toby and I enjoyed working with and for a very pleasant village.

Please accept this small donation to the cost of running your magazine.

Yours truly,

SHIRE HALL NOTES

August is holiday month at Shire Hall, and there was a welcome relief from the seemingly endless round of Council and Committee meetings, working parties, staff interviews and briefing meetings.

However, one special meeting of the County Education Committee was held and it had the unusual distinction of concluding with all the votes taken being unanimous. The meeting was held to agree a settlement of the unfortunate wage dispute over the pay of Welfare Assistants in Special Schools. If only all Education Committee meetings could be so harmonious!! I wonder whether we shall all be able to agree so well at budget time in the New Year when the £100,000 cost has to be found from other education spending. I somehow doubt it.

It is a nice thought that the first meeting of the autumn session is that of the Standing Advisory Council for Religious Education, better known by its appropriate initials S.A.C.R.E. Having had its newly prepared syllabus widely welcomed and approved, it now has to get down to the task of preparing, with the teachers, a handbook for schools to give guidance on teaching the one and only subject which is required by statute to be taught in state schools.

Parents & Friends of the School Committee

Dear Editor,

On Tuesday, 12th October, we are planning to hold a Community
Open Evening in the School from 3.00 p.m. to 9.00 p.m.

There will be facilities for all the organisations and clubs in the village, and nearby, to have a table and possibly some display boarding. We are hoping that many will take up this opportunity to put on display and thus advertise what they can offer.

A book shop will be present and, with refreshments available, we hope many visitors will pop in during the evening to ask questions and obtain information, so the tables should be manned.

We do hope that you will be able to come and would be grateful if you could let us know what space you would like.

Yours sincerely,

S.J. Hardiment

Secretary to the Committee

Swaffham Prior Community Primary School Sept.82

We Have the ideas!

We are hoping to convert the present storeroom into a library/

The project will require building skills, carpenters, painters and electricians as well as offers of spare carpets, old shelves and cupboards. If you can help us in any way we would be most grateful to hear from you.

Please help us to help you have better facilities.

Phone or pop in at the school for details.

OVER 60's CHRISTMAS PARTY

As usual at this time of year the ladies of the Village Centre
Management Committee are planning for the Over 60's Christmas Dinner and entertainment.

In order that a good spread can be prepared and that rising costs can be kept at a reasonable level, the organisers feel that the number at the party should be a minimum of 30.

In the next few days invitations will be going out to all those parishioners over 60 - so make sure that you keep Wednesday 8th December free for a super Christmas entertainment.

Transport will be provided for all those who would like to come, but feel that they could not walk to the hall in the dark - we'll take you home afterwards as well.

So please reply early when you receive your invitation and make sure all your over 60 friends accept as well. Remember we need at least 30 of you to come along.
